NEW BRUNO "BREAK" DENIED

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

LEO E. NYBERG, managing editor of the Helena World and a Phillips county representative in the General Assembly, is author of a constitutional amendment proposal "to take away from the legislature its power to increase existing tax levies and to forbid the levying of any new taxes except by direct vote of the people." His proposal is obtaining support in some sections—but in the mind of any person who understands the true nature of representative government the Nyberg notion is doomed.

El Dorado C. of C. Secretary Hits at State Toll Bridges

Asserts They Are Hindrance to Growth of Tourist Traffic

TO PLANNING BOARD
R. P. Hall Reads Letters from Out-of-State Tourist Agencies

Editor's Note: In fairness to the various south Arkansas chambers of commerce and other propaganda machines the Star is reprinting today their complete statement before the State Planning Board Thursday with respect to the state toll bridges. This Star's own position is directly opposed to them, and in future editorial items we will show that having "dug" the state for millions with which to build unprofitable toll bridges they are now demanding that these same "white elephants" be made toll-free to serve the selfish interests of local trade.

LITTLE ROCK—Automobile traffic bureaus in Illinois, Texas and Missouri profess that they are not "prejudiced" in the matter of routing tourists through Arkansas, but admit quite frankly that tourists object to Arkansas's toll bridges and to the state's system of permitting use of the highway right-of-way as "cow pastures."

This situation was revealed at a meeting of the State Planning Board Thursday by Robert P. Hall, secretary of the El Dorado Chamber of Commerce, who read excerpts from letters he had received from automobile associations and tourist bureaus in response to his inquiry as to what their attitude is toward routing traffic through this state.

The manager of the Springfield (Ill.) Auto Club wrote:

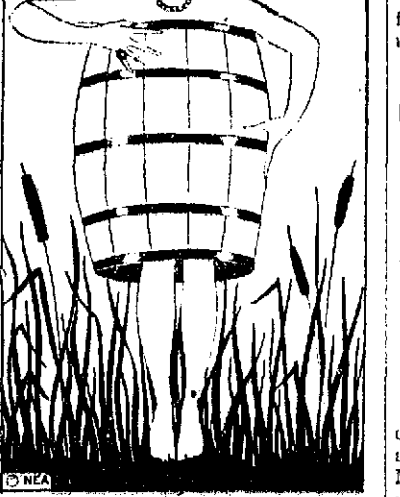

"We have no prejudice against Arkansas in regard to routing tourists through the state. However, we do find that most truck operators desire to avoid the state upon every occasion. Other tourists refuse to go through the state on account of a few toll bridges where the toll is exorbitant. For this reason they prefer to go through Oklahoma, particularly when they are on their way to California."

Describes One Trip

"Early in the winter I had occasion to drive to Hot Springs and was greatly surprised at the number of cattle and other livestock on the highways. In several cases it was necessary to stop and remove the animals."

ENGLISH DISASTER

5 Die in Forest Crackup—Train Collision Is Fatal to 2

By the Associated Press

Airplane accidents and a train crash claimed 23 lives Friday.

Grave doubts are held for the safety of four others lost in a cabin plane in the Mexican wilds. Fourteen were killed 30 miles from Mexico City when another cabin plane crashed between volcanic peaks. All were Europeans.

Two expert women parachute-jumpers died in delayed leaps in Russia.

Five were killed near Lyndhurst, England, when an airliner crashed in a forest.

Two trainmen were killed when a Pennsylvania express sideswiped a freight near Manor, Pa.

Searchers hunted for a plane which, with its four occupants, has been lost in Sonora Province, Mexico, since last Wednesday.

Futrell Says 'No' to a Third Term

Quickly Replies to Suggestions by Planning Board Members

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—A movement launched here Thursday to "draft" Governor J. Marion Futrell as a candidate for a third term in the August primary brought from the executive Thursday night the comment that "I do not want to run for governor."

The chief executive declined to amplify his statement. Previously he has said that he did "not plan to run for public office again" and that under present plans he would retire to the private practice of law at his home in Paragould at the expiration of his term.

"Fear" Discussed by Cincinnati

C. E. Bennett Addresses Rotarians—Speaks at Christian Church Sunday

A study of Fear as the great scourge of mankind was presented to the Rotary club Friday noon by C. E. Bennett, lay church speaker and retired advertising manager of the Times-Star, largest newspaper in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mr. Bennett, who is attending his brother, H. T. Bennett of this city, seriously ill, spoke last Sunday at First Presbyterian church, and will speak this Sunday at First Christian church.

His address before the Rotary club was a discussion of the curious ways in which fear, a mental process, translates itself into evil influences upon the physical body. Only courage and faith can combat fear, he said.

"The tragedy of unbelief," he said, "is that it leaves many men eating husks with the dogs."

All men fear something, and the man doesn't live who fears nothing, the speaker concluded.

Mr. Bennett was presented on a program arranged by L. Carter Johnson.

Another guest of the club Friday at Hotel Barlow was W. A. Chase, attorney of Tulsa, Okla.

President Roy Anderson named three past presidents, Frank Ward, N. T. Jewell and George W. Ware, as a nominating committee to name a ticket of new officers for the club April 16, to be voted upon April 24.

Butcher Gives Testimony Against Employer in Arson Case

TEXARKANA—(AP)—A. C. Ward and Lee Ogburn were held to the Bowie county grand jury without bond Friday on charges of murder and arson in a $75,000 fire that killed three persons here last week.

Attorneys announced they would seek the men's release on habeas corpus writs.

Employee Talks

LITTLE ROCK—A long chain of testimony in the examining trial of A. C. Ward, Texarkana grocer, and Lee Ogburn, charged with murder and arson in connection with the tragic fire in the Sand Flat business district last Friday morning, reached a sensational climax Thursday afternoon when Ralph E. Scantland, butcher in the Ward Cash store, testified that Ward had told him of his intention to destroy his property.

"Mr. Ward told me Wednesday," he said, in substance, "that the store was going to be destroyed by fire and that 100 gallons of gasoline were to be used. I told him that such a thing was terrible—a mistake. He told me that if I could think of a better way to do so, he called me into his office to tell him about it and I told him that 100 gallons of gasoline was too much to use. He said that Lee Ogburn had a man here from Hot Springs who would do the job."

Ward and Ogburn are charged in connection with the fire which took the lives of Professor J. E. Van Zan, clairvoyant, and Ellis "Fox" Duckett and Tom Burks, negroes. Their charred bodies were found in embers of the Ward store.

Melon Planting Large This Year

Between 2,000 and 3,000 Acres in Washington Area Alone

Encouraged by the good prices received for their watermelon crop last year, farmers of this section of Hempstead county have increased their acreages this year, and the ground that is to be planted in watermelons is one of the largest acreages ever planted to this crop here.

Individual growers are preparing to plant as high as 100 acres in melons, and many farmers are planting from 10 to 30 acres each. The total acreage in the Washington section will be between 2,000 and 3,000 acres if all the land the farmers are preparing for melons is planted.

Trucks coming from other states last year pushed the melon market upward and held it there throughout the season. Restrictions on trucks this year will probably cause the market to be under the prevailing prices of last year, in spite of continued improvement in general conditions. is the opinion of many observers.

Only a small acreage was planted to radishes in this section this season and growers are reporting that the prices being paid are not very satisfactory.

Critics of critics that movie money is spoiling the New York theater are disproved this year by the fact that Broadway has had one of the best seasons in recent history.

The plaintiffs were listed as George Sanders and Isadore Berkowitz, proprietors of two department stores at Chicago.

They allege that they were arrested by a track detective in a hotel lobby, and unlawfully held at the city jail until ordered to leave town.

Cleanup Planned for Washington

Centennial Plans Kept Separate From Homecoming Program

At a meeting of citizens of Washington held last Friday night, it was decided that the date for the annual Homecoming celebration would not be changed from Mother's Day Sunday, and that whatever plans were made to take part in Arkansas' Centennial would be separate from the Homecoming program.

A committee was selected by the approximately 30 persons present at the meeting to supervise the Homecoming, and any part Washington may have in the Centennial celebrations as well as to select sub-committees to handle necessary preparations for summer visitors. This connection it was also agreed that the historical spots in Washington should be designated by suitable markers, which will be done by the town council, which will have to appropriate a small sum of money for the purpose.

The general committee voted on and approved by the citizens present were as follows: Mrs. C. C. Stuart, chairman; Mrs. Joe Jackson, I. L. Pilkinton, Joe A. Wilson and Bob Patterson. Others will be appointed by this committee to look after various details as they arise. A committee of colored members was also appointed to enlist the colored citizens of Washington in an effort to improve the appearance of colored property. Members of this committee as selected are G. L. Tyus, chairman; Mose Betton, Gilbert Carey, Nora Tyus and Mary Hutchinson.

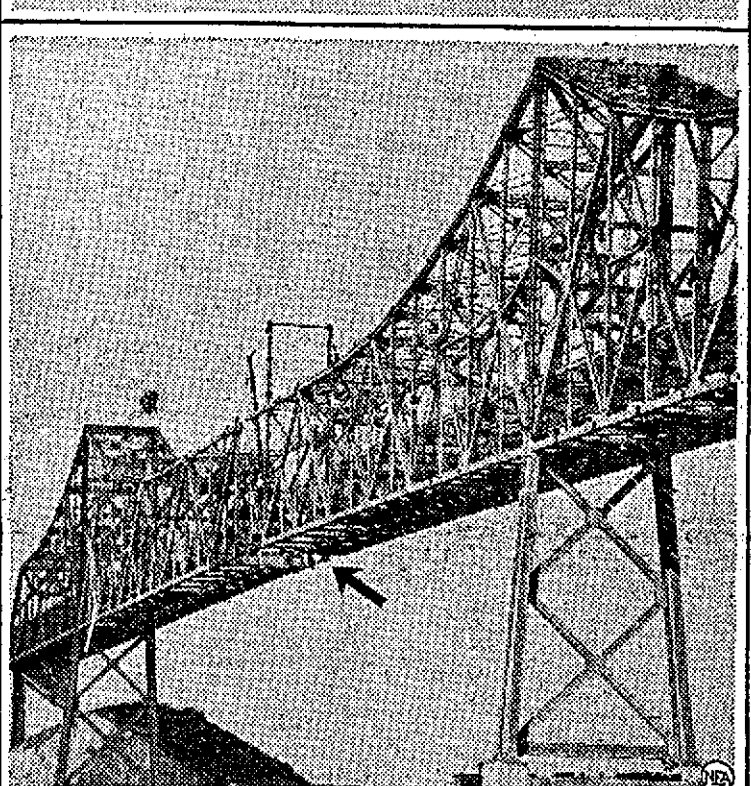

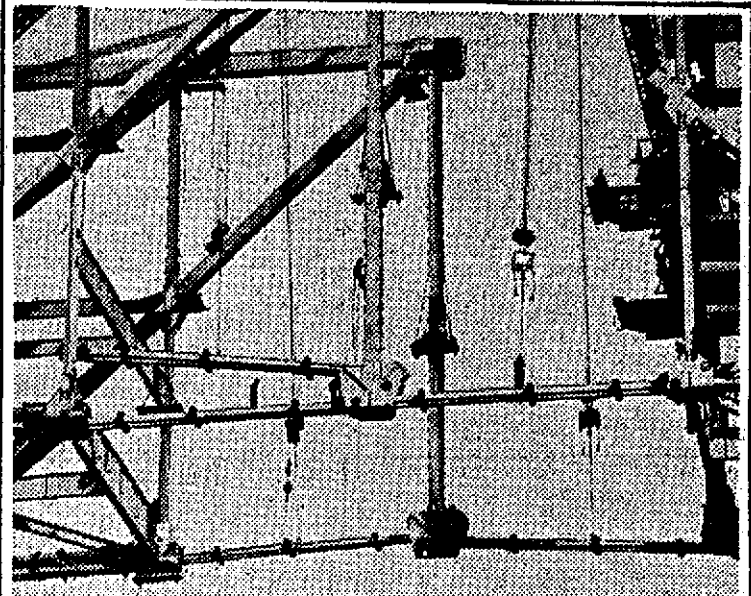

First on the program of the general committee is the work of cleaning up both old and new cemeteries and to construct a road leading to the old cemetery. It is expected that Washington will have many visitors this summer who will want to visit this particular spot.

This calls for at least a three-day program, which has been set as follows: Friday, April 3; Tuesday, April 7; and Wednesday, April 15. On these days all able citizens of Washington are asked to lend their assistance toward the work named above as well as any other that may be necessary in order to improve the general appearance of the town.

In addition to the work already mentioned there are numerous lots around town that are badly in need of attention. It is the purpose of the general committee to see that these lots, as well as streets, and insofar as

Last Gap Closed in Giant Bay Span

Clinging to girders and dangling from cables, workmen in the upper photo appeared like flies as they completed the difficult job of "hooking up" the last arms of the world's largest cantilever bridge, the San Francisco-Oakland Bay span. Working on their precarious perches, the bridge crews hoisted two huge eyebars simultaneously and fastened them with pins weighing several tons each. In the lower photo the bridge is shown after the last gap had been closed, the arrow pointing to the juncture. Traffic will flow east from San Francisco across the tandem-suspension bridges, through the Yerba Buena tunnel, and across this cantilever span, 185 feet above high water.

WPA Abolition Is Vandenberg's Idea

Michigan Senator Would Pay Over Federal Money to the States

WASHINGTON—Senator Vandenberg forwarded a relief plan Friday which would mean virtual abolition of the WPA.

He proposed that the new relief appropriation be distributed among the states on the basis of population and need.

His proposal is that the states be permitted to hand out the money as a dole, or add funds of their own and finance work projects with the total.

West Holds Hope for Republicans

Strong G. O. P. Faction Insists Candidate Must Satisfy West

By BYRON PRICE
Chief of Bureau, the Associated Press, Washington

Fundamentally, the issues now agitating Republican strategists have reduced themselves to two questions: What candidate would be strongest in the West and Mid-West, and how far should the party go in condemning the policies of the Roosevelt administration?

So far as the nominee is concerned, few of the dominant G. O. P. leaders consider the East at all. Publicly, they dismiss the subject by saying the East is safe anyway; privately they take the view that if the party names someone who can't carry the East there is no hope. It is the territory further West for which they want to gamble.

To a certain degree this feeling overflows into the dispute over party policy. One school of thought wants to make concessions to the West on both nominee and platform, going far enough toward "liberalism" to woo

Warden Refutes Story That Bruno "Bought" Money

Contradicts Rumor That Hauptmann Has Changed His Story

GOVERNOR CAUSTIC

Meanwhile, Hauptmann Is Scheduled to Die Tuesday, March 31

TRENTON, N. J.—(AP)—Unconfirmed reports swept Trenton Friday that Hauptmann had changed his story on how he came into possession of the ransom money.

It was reported that he had signed a statement that he "bought" the money, but Mark Kimberling, his prison warden, denied it.

Governor Hoffman said the whole case "reeks with unfairness, passion and prejudice."

Prison Keeper Kimberling said he told Hauptmann, "Things don't look very favorable," but the German replied cheerfully that he was sure he would escape the chair.

Hauptmann is scheduled to die next Tuesday night, March 31.

Futrell Assures Doomed Negro He Will Allow Judicial Review

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Governor Futrell said Friday the Arkansas Supreme Court must decide the legality of the death sentence commutation given a negro convict by Harvey Thorn. The governor advised Penitentiary Superintendent Cogbill to disregard the clemency order and asked the negro's attorney to seek a court injunction against the execution, promising that as soon as suit is instituted he would grant sufficient stays of execution to permit a complete legal test.

Cheese Plant Is Assured Camden

Wilson & Co. to Finance Own Project in Ouachita County City

CAMDEN, Ark.—Establishment of a cheese plant at Camden by Wilson & Company, practically was assured Thursday when company officials said they would not require the chamber of commerce to put up $12,000 for a building.

The company will finance the project. A representative of the company will be here next week to plan for the plant.

An official of the company in Chicago telephoned G. D. Holland, secretary of the chamber of commerce, notifying him of this decision. Production records will be checked next week.

Swift & Company also will send a representative here to study the dairy production schedule with a view of building a cheese plant in Camden.

Mississippi Not Likely to Flood

Vast U. S. Control System Believed to Have Big River Subdued

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Mississippi delta farmers who for more than 200 years have suffered from flood tides descending from 31 states have been little alarmed by the wall of water rolling southward from the Ohio river. Army engineers say the government's vast Mississippi flood control system has made very improbably a recurrence of the disastrous inundation which nine years ago took a toll of 200 lives, rendered 700,000 people temporarily homeless and caused a direct property damage of $200,000,000.

For years the delta farmer has had to watch the weather in 31 states unless he wanted the flood-tides of their drainage to catch him napping. He has waded neck-deep in "April showers" from New York state; Pennsylvania's excess precipitation has mutes; Wyoming's cloudbursts have swept away his farm buildings.

1,900 Miles of Levees

Now, however, flood waters are restrained by some 1,900 miles of enlarged and strengthened dikes, or

The Truth About Diet

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

When you figure the energy that bread supplies in the diet, you should remember that it is primarily a carbohydrate food.

Thus, two biscuits provide 100 calories; a three-inch piece of coffee cake provides 300 calories; a large Graham muffin yields 200 calories; a six-inch waffle yields 100 calories; a large Parker House roll makes 82 calories; a slice of rye bread provides 135 calories; a slice of cinnamon toast builds 150 calories; and even two slices of white toast will give 100 calories.

I have described white toast as a piece of bread cut so thin that when heated it curls up with disgust at the condition it is in.

In considering bread, a word also should be said about cake. Every type of cake yields energy according to what goes into it. There are angel food, devil food, fruit pound, chocolate, sponge, and white cake with icing and coconut on the outside.

The eggs, flour, and other ingredients, such as sugar, flavoring, milk, and fruit, help to build up the food value.

Therefore, cake is not good food, either for reducing or gaining weight. An average slice of cake will provide 200 to 400 calories. Because of its sweetness, it is filling and satiating. It belongs, like candy, toward the end of the meal.

Gluten breads differ from others in the manner of preparation, so as to eliminate carbohydrate. An average slice of gluten bread will weigh around 20 grams, of which anywhere from three to 20 parts will be carbohydrate, four to 10 parts protein, and a very little amount fat.

Such a slice of bread will yield 40 calories, as compared with 65 calories yielded by a slice of white milk bread, 75 calories by a slice of whole wheat bread, and 65 calories by a slice of rye bread.

In contrast to these food values for bread, a slice of chocolate layer cake will yield 305 calories, of which 38 parts will be carbohydrate and three parts protein. A slice of pound cake will yield 175 calories, and a slice of sponge cake 100 calories.

Consumption of bread in the United States has shown a striking decline since 1880. This decline is generally ascribed to the people's lessened need for energy. You can realize why, with the coming of the motor car and the use of machines in industry, there is less demand for energy foods than there used to be.

Probably another part of the lessened demand should be charged to the improvements in other foods which appeal to the appetite. Recognizing this fact, bakers everywhere are working on methods of making bread not only a better food, but also one which will appeal still more to the appetite.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

As we get farther and farther away from 1917, our perspective on our overseas achievements of those days becomes clearer. We begin to see that, when all blunders are accounted for and all brag and bluff is discounted, our army did accomplish a remarkable feat—and accomplished it under a leadership that can rank with the best America has produced in the past.

These reflection arise from a reading of "The American Army in France," a solid book written by Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord.

General Harbord went to France as Pershing's chief of staff. He later commanded the famous Second Division in action, and then took charge of the great Service of Supplies. All in all, he saw the A. E. F. and its leaders from about as many angles as were possible to one man, and his review is well worth reading.

The thing that impresses one the most, in reading this book, is the sheer mechanical magnitude of the job Pershing and his men performed. Never in history was so large an army transported so far; never were lines of communications so long; never was the mere job of keeping an army fed, clothed, and in being so prodigiously dressing up. I mean that it devotes a great deal of thought and expense to attaining just the right degree of informal sloppiness—a calculated carelessness.

For example, a pair of faded blue denim pants much favored by women and obtainable only in the better shops, costs three times as much as a similar pair of jeans unbleached.

Anything for Fun
It is at parties, though, that Hollywood really gets into the spirit of make-believe. Almost anything may serve as an occasion for a party—a new contract, a new divorce, a new bar, but rarely a birthday. Mrs. Donald Ogden Stewart got a surprise party because she had a nervous breakdown, although this usually works the other way.

The ingenuity of these people is virtually limitless. I'll be that if you were planning a surprise party for your mother, you'd never think of doing what Harold and Mildred Lloyd did for Lloyd's mother. First they transformed the basement playroom into a dim and sinister dungeon. Next they led in the 40 guests and had them don black robes and hoods and march in the manner of the Spanish Inquisition.

Then they brought in the elderly Mrs. Elizabeth Fraser Lloyd, and she was very much surprised, if not startled.

Doctors Defied
The nervous breakdown party was a good deal jollier. Mrs. Stewart and her nerves had been absent from Hollywood night life for months, under doctors' orders. So some friends named Clark Gable, Ray Francis, Clifton Webb, and Jack Whitney had the idea of giving the medical ill-jobs by giving an afternoon party in evening clothes.

There were about 60 guests, all in formal dress. Some came straight from another party that had begun the night before. Carole Lombard arrived in an ambulance and was hoisted in on a stretcher. Dear-dear, too-amusing Elsa Maxwell came as a bewitched Russian ambassador, or something. Whitney's dogs wore white ties.

Grab-Bag Dresses
Arlene (Mrs. Wesley Ruggles) Judge can give an unusual party when she sets her mind to it. She set her mind to it the other day and rented the Regency Club at Palm Springs. At the entrance was a grab-bag full of red flannels, corsets, bustles and similar accessories. Everybody had to grab something, and everybody had to wear whatever he or she grabbed. Pastimes included tennis, roller skating, bicycle racing, and elbow bending. The assemblage, as you may imagine, was in stitches, even though some of the guests didn't have very many stitches to be in.

Charades is still a good game, and Hollywood likes to go to parties in costumes representing the titles in pictures. The possibilities are almost endless. You can roll in the mud and go as "The Good Earth," or put on a set of undies and be "Sequoia."

The Coming Of The Trees

"Let trees be made, for Earth is bare," Spake the voice of the Lord in thunder. The roots ran deep and the trees were there, And Earth was full of wonder. For the white birch leaned, the oak held straight, The pines marched down the mountain;

The orchards bowed with their blossomed weight And the elm rose up like a fountain. The palm stood proud as Aaron's rod, The willow billowed slowly; So came the trees at the call of God, And all the trees are holy.—Selected.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

JESUS EXPLAINS THE KINGDOM
Text: Luke 13:18-30
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 29.

Central in the message of Jesus was His teaching concerning the Kingdom of God.

What is that Kingdom? How are its boundaries defined for human life? How can we find our place in it as citizens?

These questions are not easily answered, or there would not have been so much discussion and controversy over the matter throughout the years. The teaching of Jesus concerning the Kingdom was chiefly in parables, and perhaps it is in examining these, rather than in trying to draw maps and blueprints, that we may understand what Jesus meant by the Kingdom of God and what He taught concerning man's entrance into it.

Here in our lesson we have the parable of the grain of mustard seed, the parable of the raven, the parable of the door, and the parable of the master of the house called at night to open to those who clamor for entrance.

The parable of the mustard seed suggests the truth, that Jesus emphasized elsewhere, that the Kingdom of God takes its roots in the human heart as a grain of mustard seed in a garden, but if the heart is receptive to the rule and guidance of God, the Kingdom grows until it is powerful to embrace the whole man.

Very similar is the parable of the leaven. The Kingdom, as a hidden and powerful influence in the heart, changes the whole life, just as the lump of leaven transforms the meal.

Who, and how many, can find entrance into that Kingdom? This was the question that Jesus, "Lord," are there few that be saved? Note His reply. It was not a matter of numbers, but a matter of the means of entrance.

There is little value in discussing such speculative questions, but there is great value in making sure of one's entrance into the Kingdom. Moreover, there is only one such means of entrance, and that is taking the leaven of God's love into our lives.

In the great testing day, mere profession will avail us nothing. It will mean little to speak of our beliefs and our prayers, but the test will be what we really are, and what we really do with the talents of faith and conscience and love.

There is, however, a clear and effective revelation of the Kingdom for us in Jesus Himself. If the mysteries of the Kingdom seem too deep for understanding, if the nature of the Kingdom and its relation to our modern world are matters of doubt, there can be no question about the example that Jesus has given and the power of Jesus to save, uplift, and uphold us in following Him as members of His Kingdom.

McQuinn and Scarsella Put Fight Into Cincinnati Reds

Their Battle for First-Base Position Enlivens Baseball in the Ohio Metropolis

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another article in the series on big league training camps.

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

TAMPA, Fla.—Sunny Jim Bottomley steps out after 14 campaigns, and George Hartley McQuinn steps in as the first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds—Maybe.

McQuinn, a rather slight chap from Ballston, Va., watched his rival, Leslie George Scarsella, shoot a line triple to right-center and round around the bases like Top Cow coming down the stretch. You could almost hear McQuinn say to himself, "If I were a shoenack with my luck, people wouldn't have feet," or something like that.

McQuinn knows what it is to tackle the insurmountable obstacle in baseball, and won't stop trying. Property of the New York Yankees for five years, he has been ready for a major league trial since 1933, when he led the New York-Pennsylvania League with a batting mark of .337.

There hasn't been any reason for the Yankees tugging a second first baseman south since early in the 1925 season, when the late Miller Huggins instructed the phenomenal Henry Louis Gehrig to replace Wally Pipp.

It wasn't at all pleasant for McQuinn to contemplate waiting for Iron Man Gehrig to wear out. His only hope was to be sold, and you can imagine his disappointment when he was assigned to the Yankee farm in Newark after swatting the pellet at a .331 clip for Toronto in 1934.

Scarsella stands in way of McQuinn's batting tumbled to .288 in 1935, but during the winter the New York club decided to relieve its star farm first baseman of the Gehrig menace. McQuinn was peddled to the Reds.

But George Hartley has another fight on his hands before he will realize his ambition to be a major league first baseman.

Opposition for McQuinn is being provided by Scarsella, a 22-year-old California Italian from out around where Hal Chase grew up. Scarsella is no Chase or Gehrig, but he's much bigger than McQuinn. He hasn't had as much minor league training as his rival, just two years with the Wilmington Piedmonters, but last season he socked the sphere for .308.

Scarsella packs dynamite for a powder company during the off-season, and it's the dynamite in his bludgeon that's his biggest asset in his first major league whirl. The long-armed and loose-jointed kid won the base-stealing championship of the Piedmont League in his two years of professional effort.

Manager Charley Dressen is banking upon improvement of sophomores to pull the Reds up at least another notch in the final cuttings. With four pitchers, two catchers, listed infielders, and an outfielder, listed as recruits, the Reds hopped from eighth to sixth and gained 100 percentage points in 1935.

What was more important, they pleased the customers with an aggressive brand of ball. They led the wheel in stolen bases.

Derringer Bright Star
Dressen expects Paul Derringer to have another big year. Only Dizzy Dean and Lou Warnerke bettered Derringer's 22 victories last season, and the Reds didn't bluff the onion like the Cardinals and Cubs.

At Hollingsworth, southpaw, and Gene Schott are two of the sophomores whom Dressen hopes will be more adept with handoffs this trip. Walter Hiltcher won 19 for Toronto and was recalled in time to register a shutout for the Reds. Lee Stine corralled 18 for St. Paul, and Earl Cook, who bugged 11 for Toronto, has looked like the real merchandise to date.

Tony Freitas, the diminutive left-hander, is effective against certain outfits. St. Johnson eventually may get around to winning regularly for the Rhineland army. Dressen counts large Don Brennan with the finest relief duty in the league in 1935. George Nelson showed that he was able to stand up last season. Leroy Herrmann is available. So is Benny Frey, although he is an in-and-out now.

Lee Grissom, a tall left-hander, asked for more money than the redoubtable Curt Davis draws from the Phillies, on the strength of being the strikeout king of the Texas League. Grissom also was more generous with free transportation than all other Texas League players while winning and losing 13 games for the tail-end Fort Worth aggregation.

Whether Bill Ramondy, who hot only .256 for the Oakland Coastlers, sticks around as a third-string catcher depends on the soundness of Henry Erickson, who was badly hurt in an automobile crack-up early in September. Schozzola Lombardi, with his .363 batting mark, is the No. 1 man. Gilly Campbell also will figure behind the log.

Infield Weak at Plate
A Red infield composed of McQuinn, Alex Kampouris, Billy Myers, and Lew Riggs doesn't figure to be too much, but leaves little to be desired in the field. Other infielders are the veteran Tommy Thevenow and Lee Handley.

Handley, the youngest player on the squad at 20, is a little speedster from Bradley Polytechnic Institute of Peoria. He hit .272 while playing third base for Toronto last season.

The Reds need hitting badly, so Kiki Cuyler, who appears to have lost little of his speed in the outfield, could render much assistance by going on one of his old batting jamborees.

Ival Goodman, who will start in right field, sported a batting mark of only .269 in 1935, but led the club in runs batted in and extra-base hits.

Babe Herman, who held out, hit .333 for Cincinnati after traveling at a .235 gain for Pittsburgh, and wound up with .316. Sammy Byrd is on hand, and so is Harvey Walker, brother of Detroit's Gerald. He hit .335 for Toledo.

Calvin Chapman may be a surprise member of the Cincinnati outfield. Chapman, a rather small left-handed

Moore Wins Fair Park Feature From Miller in Straight Falls

The crowd got its money's worth at Fair park wrestling show Thursday night.

Two of the best matches staged here since last summer were dishied out to approximately 250 fans.

To climax a thrilling show, Walter Miller, the tough butler from Iron Man, took a cut at the referee, W. C. (Chick) Page.

Page, former Mississippi A. & M. and Southern Conference middleweight boxing champion, retaliated with flying fists, bringing the crowd to its feet in an uproar.

Page cornered the wrestler and let him have it. The result: The wrestler came out with a smashed nose and a small gash above one eye. The referee broke his wrist-watch in the added attraction.

Getting back to the matches, (Handsome Jack) Moore, after absorbing much punishment, took two straight falls from Miller to win the feature event. Previously, Miller had been undefeated in a Hope ring.

Moore went to town with his specialty, the "kangaroo kick," to flatten Miller in the first round. After the rest period, Miller came back with some punishing maneuvers.

Moore wiggled out of several tight places, sensed the party was getting rough and resorted to body slams to end the show. It was a bout pleasing to the fans.

The semi-final match between Chief Jessie Joy, wild Oklahoma Indian, and Billy Venable of Texas, was no slouch affair on anybody's wrestling card.

After 15 minutes, Venable took the first fall. The Indian whooped, came back on the "war path" and downed Venable in the next two rounds to win.

The crowd gave him a big hand at the end of each fall. During the match the Indian chased Venable through the ropes a half dozen times. On one occasion the Indian went through the ropes after his opponent, but both climbed back into the ring to continue the battle.

Promoter Bert Mauldin announced from the ringside that Pat O'Brien, a favorite with Hope fans last summer, would return in next week's show.

Mauldin also announced that (Sailor Jack) Moran had been billed for an appearance here next Thursday night.

"Ventriloquists are even more popular in Italy than they are in the U. S." It must be a roar to watch Il Ruce waggle a cabinet member's head.

The danger in calling a spade a spade nowadays is that, in many cases, it might be a WPA cane.

With those new victories, Italy might welcome another of the Hoare-Laval type of treaties that would concede them a couple-hundred yard putt.

Gold is the best conductor of heat, and is second to copper as a conductor of electricity.

hitter, was too unsteady at short and second base, but hit .340 for Toronto before being recalled on September 1. His speed gives him an advantage in the outfield.

The Reds hardly are pennant contenders this year, but the enterprising Larry McPhail's growing farm system is howling roars.

Hope Jockey Boots "Get-along" Home in Fifth at Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS—Jockey R. R. Simpson, the Pride of Hope, Ark., and Pomphone, a race horse owned by F. G. Orr, were rival heroes at Oaklawn track Thursday afternoon.

Simpson gave Getalong a beautiful ride to win the fifth and feature race in one of the most thrilling stretch drives seen here this season.

Pomphone, ridden by H. Derden, made the "wise betters" look silly when he easily won the seventh and last race carrying odds of $95.10, $27.40 and $10.

Simpson's handling of Getalong in the feature race was something to marvel at. His mount is owned by the J. A. Blackwell stable and is the five-year-old son of Sleepy Head and Goldie S. The race was a handicap named for the Turf Catering Association.

When Simpson rode his horse back to salute the judges, he was presented with a huge cake embellished with a chocolate horse and jockey. Simpson, grinning happily, carried the cake to the jockey room where he and his colleagues made quick work of it.

Getalong received a large bouquet of carrots embellished with gaudy ribbons. Getalong didn't care so much for the ribbons but he dearly loves carrots.

Splits Trainload of Chevrolet With Other Arkansas Dealers

E. P. Young, Chevrolet dealer, has just returned from Little Rock where he received his portion of a solid train load of Chevrolet trucks delivered in Little Rock by C. G. Smith, Memphis Zone Manager of Chevrolet Motor company.

The train was made up of 37 box cars carrying 129 Chevrolet trucks. This is the largest consignment of merchandise of one manufacturer that has been delivered to one point in the state in the same day since June 1934 when Mr. Smith delivered a train load of Chevrolet passenger cars to Greater Little Rock, Hot Springs, and Pine Bluff dealers.

Mr. Young states that after a parade through the business district of Little Rock, led by a band, the dealers and their drivers were entertained at the Missouri Pacific Boosters' Park with a picnic luncheon given by Chevrolet Motor company.
